“ WHY AMERICA NEEDS IMMIGRATION REFORM “

Dr. José Alamillo, an Associate Professor at California State University, Channel Islands, will explain the evolution of our U.S. immigration system and why it is failing all Americans. Dr. Alamillo will identify the kind of changes we need in our current broken immigration system in order to improve America's security and prosperity. He will help us understand why the US Congress must pass effective and responsible reforms that address both the human rights and the current economic crisis.

Born in Zacatecas, Mexico and raised in Ventura County California, Dr. Alamillo was able to attend local public schools uninterrupted because his family worked in the year-round lemon industry. He earned B.A. degrees in Sociology and Communication at the University of California, Santa Barbara and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in Comparative Cultures at University of California, Irvine. He is the author of Making Lemonade out of Lemons: Mexican American Labor and Leisure in a California Town. He joined CSUCI in 2008 as Coordinator of Chicano/a Studies Program and since then has worked to educate students and community members in Ventura County about immigration issues and the diverse Latino population.
